Churchill Insists American H-Bomb Is Deterrent To War

Fortress Battered By Rebels

By Larry Allen

Hanoi, Indochina (AP)—The Communist-led Vietminh rained thousands of shells upon Dien Bien Phu's shell bowl airstrip yesterday and shock troops attacked the northwest rim of the fortress from dawn to noon without denting the grim bastion.

The French command said the surging attacks on the northwest, where the rebels have driven to within a mile of the heart of the fortress, apparently were launched to keep the garrison busy at its weakest point while the enemy regrouped and prepares for another mass breakthrough attempt.

The assault cost the enemy "more than 1,000 killed," most of them left draped on barbed wire where they were caught by tank and machinegun fire, the French said.

Sleepless French soldiers, working their guns like scythes, stopped attack after attack, the French command said.

The French News Agency dispatches said Ho Chi Minh's commanders were rushing up 20,000 reinforcements to aid in the attack. Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, leader of the attack, on the fortress, was previously reported to have massed 40,000 men for the siege.

The rain of shells, apparently, was Gen. Vo's answer to a French appeal for a cease-fire while Red Cross-marked planes evacuated the wounded. A French plan to land planes and take out the wounded had to be called off yesterday because of the intense fire.

Two Vietminh divisions, which had been hammering at the bastion from the east and southeast, have eased back several hundred yards from the barbed wire barriers.

Late reports from Dien Bien Phu's garrison said the rebels were moving up ammunition and making other assault preparations.

But despite the new threat, French sources voiced confidence the tide had turned in the battle for Dien Bien Phu.

U. S. supplied French war planes ranged over the field of combat raining explosive and fire bombs on the rebels.

Rate Boost Suspended

Harrisburg (AP)—The Public Utility Commission yesterday suspended for six months to Oct. 12 a $1,173,000 a year rate boost asked by the Scranton Electric Co.

An investigation was ordered to determine whether the boost is justified for 88,200 consumers in Lackawanna, Luzerne, Susquehanna and Wayne counties.

The increase is similar to one rejected completely by the PUC last Oct. 5.

Scranton and its school districts were among the leading protestants against the rate boost.

Scranton Electric filed the new rate schedule on the grounds that the PUC last year did not consider the utility's ownership of a 40,000-kilowatt addition not in operation during the 1952 rate-test period.

Pre-Strike Vote Written Into House Measure

Washington (AP)—The House Labor Committee voted 16-8 yesterday for a Taft-Hartley Act change which would require pre-strike votes within 10 days before walk-outs.

Chairman McConnell (R-Pa.) said the group formally approved language designed to meet President Eisenhower's request for legislation on the point. Policy on the point was decided last Friday.

The proposal would require that a majority of employees within a bargaining unit vote in favor of a work stoppage before it can be a lawful strike.

Not Interested

Philadelphia (AP)—Philadelphia City Council President James A. Finnegan said yesterday he is not interested in the job of managing the primary campaign for the Democrats.

School Board Agrees To Meet With Bangor

Bangor—Washington Township School Board agreed last night to meet with the Bangor School Board tomorrow night for a discussion of jointure.

About 75 citizens, representing 10 per cent of the taxpayers, met with the township board and requested the directors to take action on a jointure with the Bangor School District.

The board agreed to the request. Its members stipulated, however, that they would not be committed to sign a jointure agreement that would bind them to any building costs without first consulting the citizens' group and other taxpayers.

Polio Vaccine Safe, Health Officials Say

New York (AP)—All new polio vaccine goes through nine tests in three different laboratories and is absolutely safe before it is released for tests on children, top authorities said yesterday.

The assurance came from the U. S. Public Health Service, the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, several leading pharmaceutical firms which are making the vaccine, and Dr. Jonas Salk, University of Pittsburgh scientist who developed the vaccine.

They followed a broadcast by ABC Commentator Walter Winchell, in which he said live, not dead, polio virus had been found in some batches of the Salk vaccine and "it may be a killer."

Some one million children are scheduled to get injections of the vaccine soon in a mass test to see if it will protect against polio.

The U. S. Public Health Service said some batches had contained live virus and had been discarded. It added this came about in converting Salk's methods to large-scale commercial production.

Pierre duPont, Former Chemical Executive, Dies

Wilmington, Del. (AP)—Pierre S. duPont, 84, former president and chairman of the board of the huge E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co., died here last night.

Du Pont, oldest living member of the famous chemical family, was stricken with a severe attack of indigestion after his dinner at his rambling estate, Longwood, in nearby Kennett Square, Pa.

He died an hour later at Memorial Hospital here.

He had been in failing health the last several years and had been confined to his home.

Air Colonel Missing

Lenten Meditation

All men come ultimately to stand beneath the cross of Jesus. Like the artist Rembrandt, if we are honest, we must paint ourselves in the picture of the crucifixion. Drown by an inevitable power to what at first seems stark tragedy and defeat, we come under the spell of the mystery and majesty of the divine revelation.

If we pause to pray and ponder at His feet we shall begin to see ourselves as we are—and ourselves as we ought to be.

In the bright light of Calvary we cannot continue to hide our pride and self worship. We see the folly of our ways, to spend money and effort for that which is neither good nor satisfying.

Have we not already felt the pangs of conscience in our frustrated efforts to beat everyone, even God in our anxiety to possess everything? And if we are truly honest, must we not confess before "God, Who so Loved the World," that the planned use of H-bomb warfare is not compatible with the spirit of Him, Who was nailed to the tree.

Will you join me in this prayer, which I believe is the first step toward our salvation—"God be merciful to me a sinner."

Dulles Says Red Chinese Invite Mass Retaliation

Washington (AP)—Secretary of States Dulles warned yesterday that the Chinese Communists, with a "rather ominous" new combat role in Indochina, are "coming awful close" to the fresh aggression that he has said could bring American retaliation.

But he told the House Foreign Affairs Committee this country has made no commitments to send troops to Indochina.

The secretary gave the first official word that Chinese Communist antiaircraft gunners are bringing down French planes at Dien Bien Phu, the besieged fortress.

He said a "considerable number" of radar-controlled 37-millimeter antiaircraft guns, which are "shooting through the clouds to bring down French planes, are operated by members of the Chinese military establishment."

He said a Red Chinese general and a score of technicians are assigned to staff headquarters of the Communist-led Vietminh.

In addition to supplying the Vietminh with heavy equipment, Dulles continued, the Chinese Reds have technicians on division level and with specialized units. He added 1,000 trucks are all Chinese manned.

At Paris, a spokesman for the French Foreign Ministry said: "What Mr. Dulles said corresponds to the situation as we know it. His statement is generally correct but incomplete." The spokesman did not explain what he meant by incomplete.

The Chinese Reds, Dulles said, are "not openly, blatantly committing new aggression but they are only saving themselves from that charge by technicalities." They claim to be supporting independence-minded "patriots."

Rep. Morano (R-Conn.) asked: "If the Chinese Communists are firing antiaircraft guns, doesn't that mean the 'active participation' you were reported to have said would bring retaliation on the Chinese mainland?"

Dulles replied that in a Sept. 2 speech at St. Louis "I said that if the Chinese sent their Red armies into Indochina it would be apt to produce action which might not be confined to Indochina."

"Technically they have not done precisely the thing I defined."

"They're coming awful close to it."

This exchange dominated the first of two weeks' hearings on a foreign aid program, expected to be around $3½ billion dollars for the year ending in mid-1955. Dulles asked the committee to support the program.

Coffee Prices Move Upward

Washington (AP)—Coffee prices jumped again yesterday and one roaster said the day may not be far off when housewives will be paying $1.50 a pound for java in the grocery stores.

Maxwell House increased its wholesale prices six cents a pound to $1.22. The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. made a five-cent increase on its own brands. Its new prices will range from $1.09 to $1.17. Other concerns are expected to follow suit.

Hunters Bring Down Bobcat; Fox Hounds Share Credit

One of sportsmen's rapidly fading thrills—the bobcat chase—was experienced last week by two Barrett Township men. It ended in the killing of a tom weighing more than 26 pounds.

Well-trained fox hounds brought the animal close for the final bagging after a three-hour chase by Joseph Price of Canadianis and Stanley VanVliet of Buck Hill Falls.

Price felled the almost extinct "cat" in the vicinity of Spruce Mountain in Barrett Township after it was tracked down by his five-year-old Walker fox hound "Old Mac" and VanVliet's "Spot," an eight-year-old Walker male and "Our Nell, Pride of the Pocomo," a three-year-old Blue Tick.

For Price and VanVliet the chase was another in the many the sportsmen have been on together in the past 35 years. But for their dogs it was their first success and one which, sportsmen will vow, seldom is chalked up to dogs of the hound-type.

All three canines are among the best fox hunters in the business today. But, as their masters point out, few fox hounds will join in a bobcat chase. When they do they must be good, the hunters added.

Price and VanVliet started their dogs early in the morning. A light snow in the area and previous information that a "cat" frequented the section, was all that was needed.

Bares Secret Atomic Pact With FDR

London (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, full of fire despite his age, stood firm yesterday on his insistence that United States hydrogen bomb tests are a deterrent to war but stirred up a first class political row in the House of Commons by disclosing a secret atomic pact with the late President Roosevelt.

The agreement, made in 1943, provided both Churchill and Roosevelt with a veto on the other's use of the A-bomb and Churchill charged it was no longer in effect because the former Labor government had bungled.

A Labor motion calling on Churchill to take the "immediate initiative" in seeking a conference with Soviet Premier Malenkov and President Eisenhower, was approved by the House of Commons on a voice vote. But Churchill won what amounted to a vote of confidence by insisting that the timing of such an approach be left to him and by Labor's failure to challenge that position.

In a grim session on the far-reaching implications of recent atomic developments, Churchill told the House of Commons the Russians are making a closer race with the United States in hydrogen bomb development than in the outmoded A-bomb.

Socialists were outwardly angry at Churchill for bringing up his secret atomic agreement with Roosevelt, however, and former Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison declared:

"It was very personal and whether, constitutionally, such personal agreements between two individuals are desirable . . . is a matter for consideration by historians and constitutional experts."

In Washington, the White House confirmed the secret agreement had been made at the 1943 Quebec Conference but emphasized it is "not in effect at the present time."

The 79-year-old Churchill in speaking on the secret Quebec understanding with Roosevelt, said it provided "a detailed arrangement to insure full and effective collaboration between the United States, Britain and Canada, including the setting up of a committee in Washington to consider combined policy."

He twitted the Labor government that took power in 1945 for not carrying through with the atomic exchange of information. Churchill said:

"That was how things stood when the (Attlee) Socialist government came to office. Any changes in the interval are their responsibility or misfortune."

The implication that the Attlee government had fumbled the ball in obtaining atomic information from the United States drew an angry outburst from Laborites.

There were cries of "Resign!"

Former Labor Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee declared: "I do not accept that. We did not abandon any of these agreements. We carried them out with the U. S. government . . . Unfortunately the (U. S.) Senate passed the McMahon Act (a 1947 measure clamping secrecy on American nuclear affairs) which prevented them carrying out that agreement."

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—Police said a 72-year-old Long Beach woman died in her home yesterday after being bitten by a rattlesnake during ceremonies at a church last night.

Chief of Detectives Loren Q. Martin said police were notified of the case after a mortuary was called to the home of the victim, Mrs. Bertha Elizabeth Smith.

Police said Mrs. Smith's brother-in-law, Fred Jordan, 35, of Brea, Calif., also was bitten by the same snake but is recovering.

Elzo Smith, the woman's brother, said Mrs. Smith and her brother-in-law were bitten during ceremonies attended by about 200 at the Church of the First Born. He said about 50 persons handled the snake and it was killed after the ceremony.

Eisenhower Urges Calm Approach To H-Bomb Threat

By Ed Creagh

Washington (AP)—President Eisenhower said last night the Russians would hesitate a long time before starting an atomic war "As long as they know that we are in a position to act strongly and to retaliate" with vastly superior power. But he said the United States must prepare itself "very coldly and very carefully" against the danger that power-loving men in the Kremlin might attack "in a fit of madness or through miscalculation."

In a radio-TV talk designed to calm hydrogen bomb jitters on the part of Americans and some of their allies, the President declared without qualification that, "We are not going to start a war."

Almost in the same breath he said nothing will do more to keep the Russians in check than "the retaliation that would certainly be visited upon them if they were to attack any of our nations or any part of our vital interests aggressively and in order to conquer us."

Committeemen To Study Sears' Qualifications

Washington (AP)—Members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee agreed yesterday to take a vote on whether Samuel P. Sears, prominent Boston lawyer, is impartial to act as special counsel in their probe of the fight between Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) and high Army officials.

Acting Chairman Mundt (R-S.D.) announced the group will meet at 9:30 a. m. today to reassess Sears' qualifications. He was appointed special counsel last Thursday.

One thing the subcommittee is expected to consider is a statement by James M. Walsh, another Boston lawyer, that McCarthy's wife recommended Sears as the man to defend her husband in a debate March 11 on "Is Sen. McCarthy an influence for good or evil?"

The debate was cancelled, but Walsh, chairman of a forum which had intended to put it on, said Sears had agreed "to support McCarthy's position."

Sears himself claims no sides were assigned for the debate.

Backed-Up Cargoes On Move

New York (AP)—In the first full work day since the end of a 29-day waterfront strike, dockers yesterday put their shoulders to 1½ million tons of backed up cargo.

Shapeup whistles called the longshoremen back to work in a thin, chill spring drizzle.

They returned to 106 of the city's 159 piers and went to work on 114 ships—or nearly twice the number of vessels that were being handled when the strike ended last Friday.

It was expected to take days to get the 650 million dollars worth of piled up cargo unsnarled and on the move once again.

The longest waterfront strike in New York's history began March 5 in a demand by the old International Longshoremen's Assn. (indemnity) for a new working contract. But they returned to work without the contract.

Businessmen Reaffirm Stand Against Ninth-Main By-Pass

Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association last night reaffirmed their stand against any by-pass proposal which would come in to Stroudsburg at Ninth and Main Sts.

Their action came after a report from Jack Kerlin, district engineer that R. E. Boyer, district engineer of the highway department will meet here with representatives of the merchants traffic committee.

Kerlin also gave a report on a recent conference with Stroudsburg council relative to temporary relief this season on traffic flow and parking.

He said merchants were very well received, thanked for making their suggestions and advised of some of the ideas council is furthering along these lines. Businessmen expressed hope council will have some report on progress at their next meeting.

Businessmen also decided to urge other organizations against a Ninth and Main by-pass to reaffirm their position with a request

Eisenhower interrupted a White House stag dinner for his half-hour, more or less off-the-cuff address. His 15 businessman dinner guests watched him deliver it—saw him perched informally on a desk, speaking as conversationally as though he were chatting over after-dinner coffee.

The President used 19 "cue cards," out of range of the TV cameras, to remind him of his major points.

One of these was the problem of Communist penetration in this country—and Eisenhower said that while this is a danger, the FBI is doing "a magnificent job" of combating it.

The President said "very grave offenses" can be committed "against an innocent individual if he is accused falsely by some one having the immunity of congressional membership."

But in the long run, Eisenhower declared, "Public opinion is the most powerful of all forces, and it will straighten this matter out whenever and wherever there is real violence to our people."

Nowhere did the President refer directly to individuals such as Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) or other members of Congress whose methods of hunting Reds have become the subject of controversy.

But he stressed that the nation's bulwark against Red infiltration—and he said "This fear has been greatly exaggerated as to numbers"—is the FBI. Twice he called attention to a report on this subject which Atty. Gen. Brownell is slated to give on radio and TV Friday night.

Eisenhower touched on other fears which, he said, trouble Americans:

One—Depression and unemployment. All the available figures indicate, he said, that unemployment is leveling off. And he repeated previous statements that the government will do whatever is necessary to head off a depression, but won't be stampeded into any unnecessary "slam-bang" emergency program.

Two—Possible loss of some free world allies exposed to Communism. This country, declared the President, must work in harmony with its friends abroad, must never make the mistake of regarding them as tools rather than friends.

Here he did not refer to Indochina specifically, though that's the nation hardest pressed at the moment by the Reds. But he said that, "In every corner of the world, whether it's too protect the southwest Pacific of NATO in Europe or wherever it is, we believe that the interested nations should band together and in a cooperative spirit maintain the freedom of those countries against any kind of Communist aggression."

There was very little in the President's talk that he hasn't said in somewhat different words on other occasions.

What it added up to was: Face the facts and don't get panicky. Or as he put it himself:

"We do not have to be hysterical. We can be vigilant; we can be Americans. We can stand up and hold up our heads and say, America is the greatest force that God has ever allowed to exist on his footstool."

"As such it is up to us to lead this world to a peaceful and secure existence, and I assure you we can do it!"

Labor Group States Stand In Y Dispute

Labor's stand on the curtailment of work at the new YMCA building in Stroudsburg was explained Sunday night in the CLU Club, East Stroudsburg, following a union meeting.

Ralph Paul, business agent for the Plumbers Local, and chairman of the CLU committee on unemployment, outlined steps taken to date and the committee issued a statement after the meeting announcing their stand.

According to Samuel Ciofalo, new secretary, the committee announced that work proceeded satisfactorily under the contract of Paul Edinger.

After two months, the report states, two non-union plumbers appeared on the scene and a work stoppage and picketing followed because union men on the job will not work with non-union employees.

The committee's statement added the YMCA directors "have taken no action to remedy this situation other than to have a large number of union men work side-by-side with non-union men."

The report adds the YMCA directors "can now, and could have from the very beginning of the unpleasant work stoppage, resolved the issue by placing the plumbing work with a contractor hiring union men."

The CLU contends a similar problem encountered in constructing the J. J. Newberry Store was solved by sub-letting a contract to a union plumber.

Paul reported that unemployment in the building trades field is "quite serious." He also stated that a layoff has taken place in Art Metal Co. and said that George Rung, secretary, on the advice of AFL President George Meany, has written Rep. Francis E. Walter and Sens. Joseph Martin and James Duff to express local concern. The messages, it was reported, also urge the federal representatives to support the George bill, increasing tax exemptions from $600 to $800 for dependents.

Ciofalo, chairman of the health and welfare committee, reported meeting with Harry Smith, superintendent of Monroe County General Hospital. He said the Monroe County Medical Society has established a committee to investigate the possibility of providing preventive services to various union groups.

Paul Dellaria and Michael LaPenna, secretary and president respectively of the Pressmen's Union are in Pittsburgh attending a convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, it was announced.

It also was disclosed President McDewitt will not seek reelection but will devote full time heading the AF of L's Labor League for Political Education.

CLU To Honor Memory Of Young Woman

Monroe County's Central Labor Union voted Sunday night to honor Alberta Bachman, a young woman who died in Stroudsburg over 20 years ago during a labor dispute. Members agreed to place a wreath on May 10 as a memorial.

It also was decided to proclaim May 10 to 16 as "Union Labor Week." Efforts will be made to have Monroe County commissioners and burgesses of county boroughs issue a proclamation, it was reported.

On Sunday, May 16 the 20th anniversary of the founding of the local Central Labor Union will be observed in the CLU Social Club, East Stroudsburg.

James McDewitt, national director of Labor's League for Political Education has agreed to speak here on needs of labor in the political field, it was announced.

Police Plan Arrest In Fatal Crash

A charge of involuntary manslaughter will be placed against Arthur Friend, 29, Trenton, N. J., motorist, upon his release from Monroe County General Hospital, State police of Mount Pocono said yesterday.

Police identified Friend as driver of a car that skidded on Route 611 near Tobyhanna on Saturday morning and rammed into another vehicle.

David and Dora Lefkowitz, both 62, of Scranton, occupants of the second car, were killed in the crash.

According to police, Friend will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace William J. Walton, Stroudsburg, after his discharge from the hospital. He was reported in "good" condition at the hospital last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Lefkowitz became Monroe County's fourth and fifth traffic fatalities this year, all between Mount Pocono and Tobyhanna. Services were held in Scranton Sunday.

Friend suffered fractured ribs in the accident after his car was reported to have skidded on a patch of ice and crashed head-on into the Lefkowitz vehicle.

America's lowest priced low-friction SIX!

FORD'S NEW I-BLOCK SIX IS THE MOST MODERN SIX IN THE INDUSTRY... THE ONLY LOW-FRICTION SIX IN ITS FIELD!

Why are more and more folks who like sixes swinging to Ford's 115-h.p. I-block Six? Because they're getting the most modern six in the industry... and for less money than practically any other six in America. Ford's short-stroke, low-friction design means less gas waste, less wear and longer engine life. The extra-deep, "I-shaped" block means a more rigid, quieter engine. Free-turning overhead valves keep compression high. And the new high-turbulence combustion chambers, teamed with Ford's exclusive Automatic Power Pilot, bring you even more "GO" per gallon.

ONLY FORD OFFERS BOTH A V-8 AND SIX IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD!

Ford is still the only low-priced car to bring you V-8 power. And this year, Ford's Y-block V-8, with its new deep-block, low-friction design, is the most modern "eight" in the industry. Both new Ford engines are available with Fordomatic,* Overdrive* or Conventional Drive—the finest choice of drives in the low-price field.

*at extra cost

HERE'S WHAT FORD'S LOW-FRICTION DESIGN MEANS TO YOU

LONGER ENGINE LIFE. Both new Ford engines are of short-stroke design. This means pistons travel less distance. Naturally, there is less friction and less wear. In both engines overhead valves have a free-turning feature which allows them to rotate to cut down wear.

MORE POWER. Because there is less friction to overcome in moving pistons up and down, there is more energy available to move the car. And because combustion chambers are wedge-shaped, fuel burns more completely... for even more power and less gas waste.

MORE "GO" PER GALLON. In addition to this gas-saving, low-friction design, Ford engines bring you the Automatic Power Pilot which squeezes the last ounce of power out of every drop of gas. You won't find any of the modern advances on this page in any other low-priced car.

Worth more when you buy it... worth more when you sell it!

County Health Societies To Cooperate In Mass X-Ray Project

May 3 Fixed For Start Of Program

Procedures for a gigantic house-to-house alert late this month to prepare for mass X-raying in the entire county starting May 3 were set up yesterday. All X-rays will be free.

Meeting at Monroe County Tuberculosis Society headquarters, a tentative schedule was studied and revised here and there to be certain it reaches high school students, athletes, teachers and food handlers in schools, and these others:

Citizens, food handlers in stores, groceries, tap rooms, etc.; all industrial workers all over the county, including some 1,200 Signal Depot workers and personnel at Tobyhanna.

One other mass X-ray project was carried out in Monroe County some years ago which was marked by outstanding cooperation for all citizens.

This one, like the other, is sponsored by the Monroe County Medical Society in cooperation with the TB Society, Heart and Cancer Societies.

Last two organizations were not drawn in the last project, but this time emphasis will be on the fact that X-rays disclose tuberculosis, heart and cancer diseases and that early detection holds forth greater hopes of cure.

Mobile X-ray units will be sent here by the Bureau of Tuberculosis Control, Pennsylvania Department of Health. Competent technicians will handle the X-ray work.

Again X-rays will be read through cooperation of the Medical Society and findings will be reported to the family physician of each individual X-rayed.

TB Society is recruiting the clerical staff involved in handing cards of each individual. Cancer Society officials will meet with TB Society and Medical Society to set up the advance contact.

Some 20,000 X-ray advance forms will be taken to every home and operation in the county together with schedule of X-ray mobile unit visitation. The card is to be filled out by the individual and presented when X-rays are taken.

Present at yesterday's planning meeting were Carl T. Seeger, president of TB Society; Mrs. Frederick J. Trumbour, county captain in Cancer Crusade; Mrs. Parke Kunkle, representing Heart chapter here; Marian Field, Mrs. Ann Shaffer, state nurses; Mrs. Helen Minnich, state health clinic; Dr. M. J. Leitner, president Medical Society; Dr. Charles Rushmore; Dr. John Martucci; Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary and Mrs. Nelson T. Beers and H. G. Heller, directors, TB Society; Mrs. E. Clyde Pyle, Stroudsburg Board of Health.

Court Upholds Radio, TV Giveaways

Washington (AP)—The Supreme Court yesterday put the stamp of legality on most radio and television giveaway programs.

Only those which require contestants to contribute a "price" or a "thing of value" are outlawed. The decision said the Federal Communications Commission, in trying to put giveaway programs off the air, overstepped the boundaries of legal interpretation and hence exceeded its rulemaking power.

Chief Justice Warren wrote the opinion in which seven other justices concurred. The ninth, Justice Douglas, took no part in the decision.

Radio and TV network officials said in New York that the ruling would have no effect on present programs or policies, since the FCC has never had been invoked. It had been held in abeyance pending the court fight.

The court affirmed a ruling by a special three judge panel in New York which said the commission could ban only shows where contestants were required to furnish money or something else of value, or to have in their possession a sponsor's product.

Three Fined On Charges Of Violating Motor Code

Three cases involving violation of motor vehicle laws were heard in argument court yesterday.

James Storm, 38, East Stroudsburg RD 2, was fined $125 and ordered to pay costs of prosecution after he entered a guilty plea to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under license suspension.

Storm was placed on probation for one year. He was recommended to county jail in lieu of payment of fine and costs.

Storm was arrested on March 19 at 3:20 p. m. after he struck a car owned by Mae Fox, East Stroudsburg. Storm's vehicle was being pushed by another car.

Fred Hineine, 59, of 467 Lincoln Ave., East Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving. Hineine was arrested at 10:50 p. m. on Dec. 25 last year after his car hit a parked car owned by Bertha Staples on S. Courtland St.

Hineine was fined $200 and costs and was sentenced to serve six months in jail in addition to fines.

Robert Lang, East Stroudsburg RD 2, 33-year-old auto mechanic, was fined $300 for drunken driving. Lang was arrested on March 26 at 11 p. m. when his car struck a parked car belonging to Anthony Caramella, Prospect St.

The Caramella car was parked on Lackawanna Ave. Damages to the car were estimated at $150.

Lang posted security and was allowed 30 days by court in which to pay his fine.

Storm was arrested by Edward Harloe; Lang and Hineine were arrested by Donald Quick. Both men are members of the East Stroudsburg borough police force.

Scott's Name Listed First

William Z. Scott, Lansford, gets the number one spot on the Republican ticket during the May primary to select a GOP candidate for senator in the General Assembly.

Scott's name will be listed above that of J. Russell Eshback, party-endorsed candidate for the nomination.

The above information was contained in a letter of certification of order for names on local ballots received yesterday by county commissioners.

Court Places Defendant On Probation

A former Northampton County resident, recently released from prison there, was placed on probation yesterday in Monroe County argument court for two 1949 Delaware Water Gap burglaries.

He was George Shotwell, arrested by Stroudsburg State Police four years ago and charged with the local thefts. Shotwell was also involved in a Northampton burglary; was tried and convicted on that charge and sentenced to prison there.

His sentence in Northampton was commuted by one year. On release he was returned to Monroe county to face the local charges.

Defense attorney Charles Bensinger pointed out that Shotwell's record in the Northampton jail had been exemplary. Bensinger read a letter from the warden of the Easton prison saying that Shotwell would be employed by a New Jersey firm on release.

Shotwell was charged with taking hooked rugs, bedspreads and other articles, in the company of a group of men, from shops owned by Fred Russo and Bradford Overton.

President Judge Fred W. Davis ordered Shotwell to pay $200 in fines and whatever costs that accrued in the case. In addition Shotwell was ordered to make restitution of $10 to Overton and $75 to Russo for portions of goods not returned.

Shotwell had previously told the court he had returned nearly all the articles he had taken. Judge Davis ordered the sums paid in weekly installments until paid in full.

Five Men Enter Guilty Pleas

Sentence was deferred in three cases in which the defendants entered pleas of guilty yesterday afternoon in argument court.

President Judge Davis said sentence would be pronounced in all three cases on the first Monday in May during next regular court session.

The first case involved three burglaries in Pocono Township. Two of these were committed last October; the third occurred in February.

Defendants were Cecil Lawler and Robert Hutchison Jr., both of Phillipsburg N. J. Both Lawler and Hutchison entered guilty pleas to charges of burglarizing Bologna's Stand and Price's Service Station in the Tannersville-Bartonsville area last year and Darr's Diner near Snyder'sville in February.

Treible was charged with three incidents of breaking the seals on railway refrigerator cars and stealing meats, canned goods and other material from the cars. Martin was charged with involvement in only one of the series of burglaries.

Detective Harold Larison, representing the DL and W, described for the court the burglaries—all of which took place at the Analomink stop of the railroad, near where Treible lives.

Larison said the car burglaries occurred on Jan. 15, Feb. 6 and March 19 of this year. All involved the Buffalo-Hoboken night train BH4.

A third person—a juvenile—is involved in the same case. He appeared before Judge Davis previously. No decision has yet been reached in his case.

Also entering a guilty plea was David Miller, 19, of 28 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg. Miller pleaded guilty to a charge of turning in false fire alarms in East Stroudsburg on Feb. 15. Sentence, again, was deferred until May.

School Census Starts Today

Stroud township teachers will take a school census beginning at 12:30 p. m. today.

The entire district will be covered by the census, according to Raymond P. Harding, supervising principal of Stroud schools.

Elementary pupils in the township's two schools—at Analomink and Clearview—will be dismissed for the day.

The same procedure will be followed on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

During these three afternoons, teachers will visit all homes in the township in an effort to determine the potential pupil population.

Hot lunches will be served in the schools between 11:30 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. each day. In case of rain, the school will remain in session and all regular schedules will be followed.

Children FIRST

That week-end meeting of 40 citizens in the Slate Belt region to intelligently discuss the pros and cons of their school jointure problems was a wonderful example of the ability of citizens of a democracy to solve their problems.

In these awful days of pressure points, local, state, national and worst of all—international—it brings hope to our hearts that we'll somehow work ourselves out of this mess we're in, if we'll only set down together and talk it out.

These Slate Belt citizens displayed courage and sound common sense when they met after the school jointure problem had apparently been blasted by the emotional and financial pressures which cropped up at preliminary meetings.

We think they're going to solve their jointure problem by proceeding as they are—meeting to discuss carefully, intelligently and without emotion the great problem of the future of their children's education.

Of course their motivation is sound. They want a better, less crowded schools with wider educational opportunities. They're willing to sacrifice for that.

All they have to do is keep that motive paramount and it will happen. No one man, or group of men, could sabotage—through stupidity or design—any project operating on so sound and realistic a premise.

Let's Do Better

We're in the midst of the grass fire season folks. Of course that's a masterpiece of understatement—one we made some weeks ago when it was just as much an understatement.

But this past week-end volunteer firemen throughout the Poconos had their week-end relaxation ruined, as well as some clothes, by no less than a dozen fires.

All of them could have been avoided. The people involved in all of them won't deny that. Yet these same people had not the slightest intention of letting a single rubbish or Spring clean-up fire get out of hand.

They just forgot the rules of burning rubbish, the debris they wanted to get rid of before the good old Summer time brought all the pleasures they like to enjoy without messing around with yard cleaning.

In almost every instance the cardinal rule of burning only in the evening, when the wind is down was ignored. Not to forget the fact some fires were started and handled by only one or two persons.

We'd like to stress that rule of the fire fighters about burning debris and rubbish only in the evening hours when the wind usually drops. If it hasn't dropped, postpone the burning operation. Above all, be sure you have enough fire fighting power at hand.

Let's all try to do better. The volunteer firemen will love it and we'll all be a little less exhausting from the physical standpoint—not to mention the nervous strain.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

AMERICAN TRAGEDY

"Ba funny," the voice said. "Keep it light. Laughier is the thing." But it was difficult and the effort seemed out of bounds. For, coming on top of a nationwide picture of ghastly behavior by kids, the case of a 17-year-old New Yorker who helped a teen-age girl murder her mother, and danced and cavorted in the apartment in which the body was concealed, filled our mind with a pretty horrifying panorama of an American scene getting worse with every tick of the clock. Back of this picture of teen-agers casually mixing love, sex and music with firebreath murder we seemed to see a dismal parade in which the marchers included movie and air-wave notables, box-office first boys, supersophisticated entertainment-world critics who fight every move for censorship and educators who blow their stacks at the idea of the paddle or shingle on the seat of the pants.

In this gruesome parade we saw, too, the parents who scream when a teacher slaps a toughie, PTA groups which are all for letting the kids develop their own way, and legislators who scuttle every bill designed to put limits on the scenes of violence, out-lavry, vicious behavior, abysmal morals and extra raw murders being pumped into the American home as never before. And among the marchers we saw high-court judges seldom on the side of harassed parents, upper-bracket characters who make a mockery of romance and matrimony and the lads and lassies who leer at every moment aimed at giving the home, the school and the church an even break in the battle against the forces that make it a miracle if a kid comes up the right way and escapes conversion to the idea that all the old rules for human decency are for the birds.

When a girl of 15, annoyed by a mother popping in on a love scene, lets the teen-age boy friend slug her mother and then hands him a knife to carve her up, it is highly obvious that the minds of kids are being twisted as never before. Neither is a mental case. Both would have seemed normal and pleasant in any group. You read their stories in just, murder and playfulness in the presence of death, and you read, too, of renewed fights against film and airwave censorship, defiance of its own code by a few top money-mad Hollywood producers already wallowing in easy dough, and further struggles to frame censorship laws to "spell out" things to the satisfaction of the Supreme Court. It's all done by bloodstained mirrors. Prominent industrialists sponsor TV horror tales blue-printing the ghastliest of crimes, as Hollywood asks for less restraint in its films of hoodlumism, prison riots, gangster activities, sex, shabby standards, etc. Horror marches on with a leer at the Biblical words "It were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he be cast into the sea than that he offend one of these little ones" and "Suffer little children to come unto me."

There's no cut in taxes on gasoline, cigarettes, wines or beer, and Elmer Twitcheil, drawing up in his battered jalopy for another 10 gallons, lighting a cigarette and dreaming of a cooling drink later on, exclaimed sadly, "It's nice to know that if I had a safety deposit box, planned a cross-country phone call or was in the market for a diamond necklace my life wouldn't be so tough." . . . U.S. Steel and Theater Guild put on a TV Western the other day in which there wasn't a single HORSE! . . . And only three shots fired, all of which hit the target! . . . Probably that hospital cashier who stole $20,000 to play the ponies liked "Keep Trying" and "In Deep" . . . Horse- and dog-track customers will have to pay for tickets without any tax cuts, but they always look to us as if they needed relief more than anybody else. . . . Arthur Miller, author of "Death of a Salesman," and other successes was refused a passport under regulations barring them to persons believed to be supporting Communist movements, denies the impression and says, "That I am opposed to much of what passes as American domestic and foreign policy is certainly true. I know my plays are a credit to this nation and I dare say they will endure longer than the McCarran Act." . . . Modest boy, what! . . . The cut in the tax on jewelry is bringing back the song "Diamonds Are A Girl's Best Friend."

Robert S. Allen Reports

54,000 Security Cases Pending Prosecution

Washington — The astonishing total of 54,000 internal security cases is pending in the Criminal Division of the Justice Department. Number of all cases before this key enforcement agency is 69,000.

Thus, 78 per cent of these possible federal prosecutions involve charges of security violations of various kinds.

J. W. Yeagley, top assistant in the Criminal Division, disclosed these unpublished figures to a group of surprised Senate leaders during an appeal for more funds to cope with this huge backlog of work.

The House cut the Division's budget, Yeagley contended that unless this money is restored, his agency will be virtually swamped. He pointed out that as a result of the greatly expanded security operations of the FBI in the last three years, the Criminal Division now has thousands of such cases pending in its files.

Not all of them will be tried, Yeagley explained that some of the cases may have to be dropped for lack of sufficient evidence, others for different reasons, including intelligence purposes.

He made no mention of the hotly disputed question of the number of security cases among government employees.

Yeagley said nothing about that, and none of the senators brought it up. No information has been obtained so far as to how many of the 54,000 security cases reported by Yeagley involve government workers, if any.

While the senators warily skirted that explosive issue, they were frankly amazed by the 54,000 figure.

"Do we understand you correctly," exclaimed Senator Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.), "that of the 60,000 cases pending in the Criminal Division, 54,000 of them involve security violations?"

"That's right," replied Yeagley. "Those are the figures." "It's hard to believe," said Saltonstall. "Are you getting these security cases from the FBI?"

"Yes, we are," declared Yeagley. "Last July, we had 44,764 security cases and now the number is around 54,000. All these cases come from the FBI. I was astounded myself by these statistics, but I checked on them and they are correct. The head of our Internal Security Section told me that in the past three years the FBI has added 200 men to the staff engaged in internal security work and that has greatly increased the number of cases sent to us."

"What about the other 15,000 cases," asked Saltonstall, "what do they involve?" "Many of them are theft of government property, violation of the banking laws and other federal acts," explained Yeagley. "They cover a wide range of offenses, from murder on up."

Powder Keg — Federal Prison Director J. V. Bennett is very uneasy about the situation in federal penitentiaries. He has privately warned Congress that disturbances may erupt any time.

Bennett attributes this explosive situation to two factors: overcrowding and a large number of vicious offenders.

He made his blunt report in an effort to head off a $2,500,000 cut in the Prison Bureau's budget. The Justice Department asked for $29,350,000 for federal penitentiaries, but the Budget Bureau slashed that to $26,850,000.

"We are sitting on a dynamite keg in a number of our prisons," Bennett warned. "We are seriously overcrowded, understaffed and at the same time are getting more difficult and desperate groups. We now have more than 700 prisoners with life sentences or their equivalent. In one Midwestern institution, we have 700 prisoners who include a number of narcotics peddlers and other serious offenders. Despite that, we have only a few men on duty at night inside that institution. Similar dangerous conditions exist in other places."

Senator Everett Dirksen (R., Ill.), asked about the number of new inmates.

"We now have 1,542 more prisoners than last year," Bennett said. "Our over-all total is 19,554. As far as I can see, there is no likelihood of that decreasing. Whatever the cause, the increase in population or other factors, we seem to get more inmates all the time."

Air Force Champion — Arthur Godfrey is quietly putting his good friend Defense Secretary Charles Wilson on the spot.

The radio and TV star is an ardent advocate of air power and he has submitted to Wilson a plan calling for an annual $4,500,000,000 budget for the Strategic Air Command for a number of years.

The backstage program is the work of a group of Air Force generals, among them General Curtis LeMay, dynamic commander of the Strategic Air Command and a close friend of Godfrey. They recently vacationed together, and last year Godfrey visited a number of Air Force bases as LeMay's guest.

In the military budget for next fiscal year the Air Force gets $11,200,000,000. Under Godfrey's proposal, approximately 40 per cent of that would go to LeMay's command.

George Sokolsky Says...

Those Critical Of Dulles Last Policy Speech Afraid To Offend Or Frighten

Those who are critical of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' policy speech apparently dislike the idea of speaking the truth for fear that it might offend some and frighten others. What Dulles said about Indochina, for instance, is not new. The Russians and Indians have been denouncing the United States for pursuing this policy for months.

What it all amounts to is that the United States does not intend to permit Red China to conquer Indochina. What has not been considered generally are the means that this country would employ to accomplish the end of keeping Indochina outside the Soviet Universal State. Obviously that cannot be done without active American intervention because the French have demonstrated that they cannot do it.

American experience in Korea has been that native troops can be trained to use modern weapons under American supervision. Such American supervision and weapons are already available and in use in Indochina. Dulles' speech only means that the number of Americans in Indochina will be increased and that the quantities of weapons will be greater.

What can be the alternative to the Dulles concept? It can only be an acknowledgment of failure, an admission of defeat, a recognition of another Soviet conquest and the absorption by Red China of Indochina in the Soviet Universal State. There is no other alternative, no middle way compromise, just as there was none with regard to Korea or Czechoslovakia. Those who always seek compromises with the Russians always end in defeat.

There are also objections to Dulles' nearly crystal clear pronouncement against the recognition of Red China by membership in the United Nations. He did not say, as Henry Cabot Lodge did, that the United States would use the veto. But he did say everything else that could be said to indicate American opposition.

Surely, it is preferable to make all this clear before the Geneva Conference meets so that there can be no misunderstanding. It is doubtful that any other course could be followed without getting into a wrangle the very first day that the Conference meets. The United States is now publicly pledged not to agree to such recognition and no American official can go back on Dulles' speech, not even Dulles himself.

If any attempt were to be made to do by a nod what cannot be done by treaty, the pending George Amendment to the Constitution would undoubtedly be brought before the Congress for immediate action. Dulles' speech had Presidential approval. It was not a trial balloon to see how our allies felt about it; it was a statement of fixed policy to which our allies will need to adjust one way or the other.

This is extremely serious business and it is gratifying that Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, a Democrat, made the first full dress speech in the Senate supporting President Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles, with the suggestion of united action. If united action is obtainable, it would, of course, be beneficial from the standpoint that the people of Asia must be made to realize that the United States is not an imperialist nation, seeks the territory of no country and desires to dominate no people.

Despite our magnificent conduct in Japan and South Korea, despite our granting independence to the Philippines, the Communists have in a large measure been able to establish in the minds of Asiatics that the United States is the imperialistic country of the era. Our own propaganda devices have not been able to counteract this impression, largely perhaps because Asiatics expect "white" nations to be imperialistic.

While the governments of the countries of Eastern Asia know that the United States has no imperialistic ambitions, such a fact does not percolate down to the people. Surely, military action on our part in Indochina should be accompanied by a most intensive propaganda campaign, not only in Indochina, but in Burma, Thailand and in the various Indian areas, including Ceylon, which tends to be pro-Russian, setting forth the truth of our position. One reason for Nehru's recalcitrance is that the masses of India have been led to believe that the United States is imperialistic and would occupy India during the next war period. The propaganda battle has yet to be fought with the skill we display when we sell soft drinks or deodorants.

Wyoming has a greater number of elk than any other state.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Motor Vehicles Commissioner

Charles F. Kelly certainly picked up a red-hot poker by the wrong end when he refused 5,000 women of Connecticut their drivers' licenses because they refused to give their right ages on their applications.

The Commissioner is a married man. He ought to know women by now. When a woman says "over 21," that's the best that can be expected of her. No man of discernment will ever ask her to say more.

The commissioner should also know by now that eternal youth is every woman's privilege. If it were not so, why would dress and cosmetic manufacturers spend millions of dollars a year to advertise their products to them? Why would almost every newspaper in America run women's pages with beauty advice, fashion articles, and all the other items that show a woman how not ever to grow any older than "over 21?"

A number of readers have written me to say that I can't think much of women, because I am "always knocking them."

One reader, who met my wife in Florida, expressed her astonishment that she "is such a nice woman." She had expected to see an ugly, mean, nagging old hag from the way I have written about her.

I want to say right here that I both love women in general and my wife in particular.

I asked her whether it was true that I write about her as if she were "an old hag."

"Not exactly," replied the mate, "but you ARE a little bit condescending when you write about women."

I suppose that attitude of condescension exists in almost every man. Frankly, we don't like it that women are getting closer and closer to ourselves in their activities and achievements.

They have made us run so much harder for success, and we men are sort of running out of wind.

If we don't look out, pretty soon THEY will be our superiors and WE will be the weaker sex.

The peculiar thing about women is that they are trying and succeeding — to combine all their feminine wiles with our male virtues.

Take three stories in one day's papers. One tells about a little 85-pound woman in Detroit holding back a driverless car rolling down her driveway to keep it from crushing a five-year-old neighbor boy. When it was all over, the woman bustled out crying.

A man wouldn't have done that. He would have acted more like Filippo Cardellini, of Rome, Italy, who threw a live hand grenade at Cecilia Dorazzi, who had spurned his love. She is in the hospital, he is in jail.

Then there is the story about that woman up in Watertown, N.Y., who gave birth to her 20th child in 36 years. I understand that she took it very calmly, while her husband almost collapsed.

Commissioner Kelly should go and see all the woman who buy "Do It Yourself" kits nowadays! And they don't buy them for their husbands but for themselves.

We had a door that wouldn't close. I tried fixing it but gave up in disgust. I was going to call in a carpenter. "Nothing doing," said my wife. "I'll do it myself." And, by golly, she did.

Why should SHE have to give her right age?

Syllables That Are Torn Unpalatable

—by J. Peter Olwyll

English would be more palatable if it were butchered less. Sometimes it is radio announcers who wield the meat ax with the most fury.

They're professionally slick, no doubt of that. Smooth as a buttered window pane. But it's precisely that combination of plush tones with torn syllables, pale platitudes and dead diction which makes the scalp prickle.

Surface fluency and lubricated vocal cords don't make a malapropism sound a bit better.

It's like seeing Jeanmaire with a charleyhorse. Garbo with a runny nose. The Queen of England chewing bubble gum.

It would be possible for a dedicated listener to compile a voluminous list of bloopers, provided he had the staying power. I don't.

Nevertheless, children by the thousands must listen to radio. Look at all the breakfast cereal, both crunchy-crispy and non-crunchy-crispy, which is sold.

For their sakes, because children are such indiscriminately imitative creatures—wouldn't it be a worthy effort for announcers to speak less in the manner of silver-plated reading machines, more in the fashion of flesh-and-blood people, and exercise a reasonable degree of diligence in pronouncing words properly? Some excellent texts would be Webster's Dictionary, the Johnson-O'Connor Vocabulary Builder, and especially Opiyelke's "Don't Say It."

As a helpful start, here's some information which might forestall part of the research: (spelling is phonetic):

It's not Andre Kosta-LIN-its, but Kosta-LAIN-its. It's not Walter Ge-SEEK-ing, but Ge-zak-ing. It's not jew-le-ree, but jew-el-ry.

It's not Feb-yu-ary, but Feb-roo-ary. It's not SIG-mun Rhee, but SING-mon Rhee. It's never, never nine-DEE-nine, but nine-TEE-nine. It's not mod-DREN, but mod-ERN. It's not HOLY-kost, but HOLLOW-kawst. It's not reper-TWAR-EE, but either reper-TWAR or reper-TORY.

Hourly Rated Depot Workers Receive Raise

All "blue collar", or hourly rated employees, at Tobyhanna Signal Depot began working yesterday under wage increases approximating 20 cents an hour.

Reports indicated new prevailing rates compare favorably with those at the Baltimore Signal Depot.

Interviewing of employees of the Baltimore Depot who indicated their desire to transfer to Tobyhanna in conjunction with announced closing of that base continued yesterday. There was every indication this task will be lengthy.

A great majority of the 2,700 Baltimore Depot workers will be granted interviews because they are instructed by the American Federation of Government Employees and by veterans organizations to mark transfer forms with a "yes".

Even after interviewing is completed and processed, it may be some time before the number proposing to transfer from Baltimore will be known. Each person notified of available jobs has 30 days from date of notification to accept.

The new scale for hourly employees at Tobyhanna range from 20 cents an hour increase, from $1.14 to $1.30, for Grade 1, to 16 cents an hour, $1.83 to $1.99, for Grade 20. Supervisory employees rates also were boosted from 25 to 23 cents an hour, with Grade 1 going from $1.54 to $1.80, and Grade 10 from $2.20 to $2.49.

Intersection Relocation Approved

Bangor — Borough Council approved plans last night for repair and relocation of a major borough intersection.

Object of construction: The intersection at First and Market Sts. in the heart of the borough.

Council unanimously approved a plan submitted by borough engineer David Pritchard to put in water catch basins on both sides of Market St.

Part of the Pritchard plan, also will be installation of piping across the corner lot now owned by borough to the alley storm sewer bordering on Municipal Building.

To facilitate construction and drainage, council approved cutting off 16 feet from the corner lot at First and Market, tapering off of sewer excavation to eight feet at the alleyway covering a length of approximately 100 feet.

The plan further calls for angle parking along the east side of N. First St. and relocation of parking meters along with sidewalk and curbing on the west side of N. First St.

Council agreed to advertise for bids on the project and another portion of work for construction of sidewalks and curbing at the intersection of Pennsylvania Ave. and N. Main St.

Bids for curbing on S. Tenth St. and Broadway near Memorial Park will also be solicited.

In other actions: Council approved purchase of six new firefighting tanks asked by the safety committee to be used for putting out brush fires.

Council agreed to make S. Fourth St. between Market and Broadway a "one-way street" running south to help alleviate traffic.

Scientists Hint Success In Insemination Experiment

Iowa City, Iowa (AP)—There are three lively babies in the world, all under six months of age, who are entirely unaware of their place in the history of mankind.

They are the first babies, known to science, to be children of conceptions from the use of stored frozen semen.

The bare fact of their births, probably last December, January, and February, was confirmed yesterday by Dr. R. G. Bunge, one of a team of State University of Iowa scientists who instituted the study resulting in them.

The doctor will not tell questioners who the babies are, whether they are male or female, or divulge other pertinent information.

He and his associate, Dr. J. K. Sherman, are saving most of their observations for presentation to the American Society for the conditions in front of the borough high school.

Council gave Burgess Hayden Pritchard authority to appoint members of the Blue Mountain Rod and Gun Club as deputies in a drive to keep residents from dumping refuse in Martins Creek from Market St. to the S. Main St. bridge. Action was taken in response to complaints.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

With a head still buzzing from such incomprehensible definitions as the "reimbursement fraction" is determined by the number of teaching units divided by the assessed valuation multiplied by .004 subtracted from $4,500 not counting the pickets in the fence, or words to that effect, I find myself going back in memory to school as it was in 1927 and 1928.

That was when East Stroudsburg High School students went from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. and then, with the seats still warm, made room for the burned-out Stroudsburg high-ers from 1 to 3 p. m.

That was when the grade school students in Stroudsburg were quartered in the churches, the YMCA and the Mory.

We must have missed a lot of education along the way, and the teachers probably aged more during that two years than in any other ten—but we sure had fun.

Particularly with homework—since you had either the morning or the afternoon to do it in, and evenings were free as the air.

And no two days had the same schedule since you started with the period you'd lost out on the day before. And you really got to know your opposite number in the other high school, what with sharing the same desk and leaving notes and checking up on their homework.

Parents and educators may be tearing their hair, but the kids somehow seem to go right on their merry way, no matter what.

Womans Club To Canvass Both Towns

The Stroudsburg Woman's Club will conduct the house-to-house preliminary survey for the X-ray unit to visit Monroe County. It was decided at the executive board meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Stroud Community House.

Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary of the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society, explained how the women could serve the cause of health in Monroe County, by alerting every family in both boroughs to the scheduled visit of the X-ray unit, sponsored by the Monroe County Medical Society, and the TB and Health Society with the Cancer Society and Heart Association co-operating. The state nurses and health officers will assist.

Mrs. Parke W. Kunkle, club chairman of welfare, will serve as general chairman with Mrs. Foster Minnich as chairman in Stroudsburg and Mrs. Alphonse Meyers and Mrs. Eli Travis as co-chairmen in East Stroudsburg.

Mrs. W. H. Caulfield, president, also announced that Mrs. Kunkle would represent the club on the Monroe County Community Chest State Planning committee in the division of family and child welfare, while Mrs. Evan Reese would serve on the health division.

The club contributed a $5 prize to the best-made garment in the recent home economics fashion show through Miss Miriam Lark. Mrs. Travis, ways and means chairman, announced place mats on sale for the benefit of the state contribution to the Independence Hall Restoration project.

AAUW Panel Outlines School Problems in Three Districts

The American Association of University Women last night delved into the problems of definition of such terms as reimbursement fraction, municipal authority, millage, jointure, union, assessments and exonerations in their attempt to understand the needs of educational districts in the county and ways to meet those needs.

In a panel which included three AAUW members: Mrs. Howard Eckert, East Stroudsburg; Miss Julia Sieg, Stroudsburg; and Mrs. Elmer Veety, Hamilton Township, these questions and many more were put by Dr. Veva Dean, panel moderator.

From enrollment statistics, a pattern of need for more room came from all three districts represented in varying degrees. Hamilton Township faces the need for the two additional grades, seventh and eighth, now housed in the new school which had been intended for only six grades.

Stroudsburg finds its biggest crowding in the elementary level where two more classrooms must be found next year, an additional room the following year, and still another the third year.

While there is no increase in the high school population at present, the more varied courses offered require more room with a school cafeteria, music room, adequate gym, industrial shop and vocational agriculture department, an enlarged library and faculty room high on the list of needs.

East Stroudsburg's new shop building relieved much of the congestion, providing a band room, study halls, faculty room, consultation and committee rooms in the basement space left by the removal of the shop. With the Junior High School facilities there are two gymnasiums, two libraries. However, there is no cafeteria, and no home economics program in the high school. The high school itself, was built in 1915, the gymnasium in 1924, the junior high school in 1932 and the shop in 1953.

In outlining possible financing for any building program, the panel pointed out that the school budget was primarily for annual expenses, and that the sinking fund was limited. Borrowing the money from the state authority or a municipal authority, approved by the state, were other ways of financing new building.

The taxation rate is limited to 2 per cent of the assessed valuation, except where a larger rate is approved by the vote of the populace which is then limited to 7 per cent. It was pointed out that the per capita tax, shared with supervisors or town council, is limited to $15. The inequality of assessments and the number of exonerations and persons not listed on the tax roles were among the problems of school support by taxation which were discussed.

The reimbursement fraction, which determines the amount of money paid by the state to each district, is determined by the number of teaching units in relation to the market value of the property, varying with the needs and special problems in each district.

The term jointure—in which districts unite maintaining their own school boards and identify as districts—was compared with union in which a common school board serves one district with the areas losing their identity in the larger unit.

Mrs. Elton Denning had arranged the program. No conclusions were drawn, but a study of the ## Music Parents Prepare For Tag Day Sat.

The Music Parents of Stroudsburg High School are preparing for Band Uniform Tag Day this Saturday throughout the town when everyone will be given an opportunity to make a final contribution to the new uniforms, which have now arrived and are ready to be worn for the first time at the concert at the end of April.

Through magazine subscriptions sold by the students, through cake walks sponsored by the Music Parents, and a Tag Day last summer, plus gifts and the sale of the old uniforms, the new ones are almost paid for. This last drive is expected to present the band in uniforms, "not only clean, but paid for."

Mrs. Elton Denning is heading the committee in charge of tag day arrangements.

In Hospital

Mrs. Carrie Smith, of Foxtown Hill, arrived home just in time to be admitted to the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, for surgical treatment.

The smart looking lady in furs and feathers, chatting so happily this past Saturday in our stationery department, was Nellie Burt, rested and rosy after her long-awaited retirement trip. Nellie and her Bill spent nine weeks touring the States and Mexico, and can hardly wait to return South of the Border. The weather is wonderful there, says Nellie, and her Wyckoff pension and other American dollars go twice as far. In addition there are such sights as the glass curtain in Mexico City's opaca house, Maximilian's palace, the great cathedrals, and, of course, the food! If the Mexican Chamber of Commerce hasn't already hired Nellie they've overlooked a good bet.

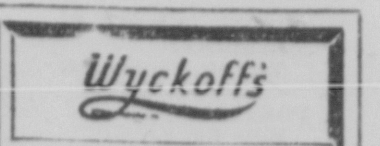

Another smart looking lady attracting attention yesterday in our store was Margaret Oldford Indol, selecting a handbag to carry with the navy and white dress she'll model in our big Wyckoff-Kiwanis fashion show this coming Friday evening at Stroudsburg High School. While I'm planning to attend the Greatest Show on Earth that day with our Wyckoff excursion, I'm hoping to be home in time for the fashion show. As I recall, we were in town last trip around 7:30. . . . Incidentally, if you hope to attend the circus, it would be wise to purchase your ticket today. Only eight tickets remain unsold, I understand, and when they're gone, they're gone—unless, of course, we have enough clamoring customers to fill a second bus.

From Lanvin comes a press release about the Lanvin Traveler—the handsome pseudo-gold and black fashon that carries one's perfume safely in purse or suitcase. Says the release, stores are given a quota as the supply is limited. Checking with Pearl Walters we find this is only too true. Not only did we receive a limited number, but all except three are sold. So—if you're in the market for a Traveler, you'd better travel fast to the cosmetic counter and secure yours.

Quite the wickedest looking Frenchmen I could ever imagine, leers at one from the publicity released by Tru Balance in behalf of their new French girdle "Scandale". Now at last we American women can glory in a truly magnificent French foundation garment made right here in our own country. Glamour magazine has acclaimed it, and the entire world of fashion has heralded this meeting of French and American minds in behalf of a more beautiful silhouette. "Scandale" girdles are made by French-trained craftsmen on the original patterns imported from France. You'll admire them for their ingenious shaping, light bones, button-on adjustable garters, and supple nylon elastic. "Scandale" is the word the French have for perfect figure control with comfort and beauty. And who doesn't appreciate a bit of "scandale" now and then? . . . Dacron, chromspun, and Clokay. As words, they may sound like pure fabrications. As fabrics they're terrific. You know about dacron of course, for we've sung its praises time and again. But have you seen it in the red, white and blue dusters now sold in our lingerie department at $10.98. These I love. The cuffs of the short sleeves are piped in a row of blue and a row of red, and the plastic buttons have the same "piped" effect. Wear these loose, or belt them in with a blue leather belt. The size range is 10 to 18. As for the chromspun you can own this at $5.98 in a striped, washable taffeta color-fast to dry cleaning fluids, sunlight, fumes, or laundering. Your color choice lies between blue with white or rose red and white. But it's the Clokay that takes my eye at the moment. An Everglaze embossed cotton, it comes in a wickerlike-design of solid pink, aqua or straw. Or you can have a princess style duster-dress in black and white or red and white tweed. Chromspun and Dacron are terrific, but if you want to stay as tweed as you are, it's Clokay with me!

Hunters Bring Down Bobcat; Fox Hounds Share Credit

canine trio to follow. The dogs worked a small swamp for 45 minutes, circling from time to time to pick up the scent. When one would go astray slightly, another soon would have the track and his baying brought the others to his side.

The chase led to a second swamp in dense rhododendron where VanVliet crouched in the bushes, then saw the "cat" emerge, but only momentarily. VanVliet couldn't get a good "bead" on the quarry and lost his prey. But then the dogs, hot on the trail, ran the "cat" into another and larger swamp.

The dogs circled for several hours, then flushed out the bobcat and sent it running toward Price. From a distance of about 15 feet, Price saw the bobcat move slowly along a fallen tree. His first shot with a number two from his .12 gauge gun brought down the tom. The shot lodged in the right shoulder and leg.

Then VanVliet said, a peculiar thing happened. "Old Nell" moved right next to the "cat" and lay down. While her companion "Spot" could move in close "Old Nell" snarled whenever Price's "Old Mac" approached.

In their years of hunting Price has bagged about a dozen "cats" and VanVliet, six, the largest of which was 31 pounds. But it's been 12 years since the pair had any hunting luck with the bobcat.

With few exceptions, the Pocono Mountains are almost clean of bobcats — which once lured many hunters to this section. By actual weight the bobcat felled last week scaled 26 1/2 pounds, a fair-sized kill even in these days when few are to be found.

But behind the shot from Price's gun were years of skilled training with the trio of canines that were the real hunters on this particular chase. The fruits of their three-hour trek soon will be on display in Mountainhome — as a mounted specie in Wilmer Vogt's business place.

TUESDAY, APRIL 6, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You may experience tendencies toward bluntness and unreasonableness now. And so will others. But if you will be smart and gracious of manner you can smooth all paths.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You may have to watch each and every movement; a possible chance now to take advantage of new opportunities. Neither drift nor rush into things; that happy medium.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini) — One of your best periods to go it on your own. Original ideas favored. In most things the exception to the rule should pay off. Make a schedule; don't hop-scotch; be consistent and calm.

June 21 to July 20 (Cancer) — Have you been computing about taking on the different if it has merit. Tackle that difficult prospect. The whole day inspires action, acquisition, achievement, and you can fit in here fine.

July 21 to August 20 (Leo) — Stop, get that you follow a well-devised plan — one that is reasonable and not over-taxing. Reasonable economy, avoidance of unnecessary debts stressed.

August 21 to September 20 (Virgo) — Plan of "No" signs evident now. Better devote some time to study, reviewing and planning tomorrow's work. Check others' doings and the reasons for their success. Be a careful observer.

September 21 to October 20 (Libra) — Day's aspects the opposite to Virgo's. Benevolent rays abound and the benevolent go-getter will have made many good ideas — and gains.

October 21 to November 20 (Scorpio) — Subtle undercurrent possible, new and unforeseen contention. Don't be swayed in wrong directions or allow questionable propositions to influence your better judgment.

November 21 to December 20 (Sagittarius) — Headway gains may be held up in early hours. Stick to sensible methods, tried and familiar endeavors; be constructive rather than critical. Tend to your tasks first.

December 21 to January 20 (Capricorn) — It may require extra effort to convert things to your credit or favor now. Keep logic in foreground. Don't allow situations to affect your disposition. You'll feel fine.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Setbacks are only temporary. Stay with it, friend. Fight but keep calm. Don't allow others to deter you from your objectives; give care to your personal affairs especially.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — With a steady, pleasantly aggressive attitude in both business and personal affairs you can round out a moderately good day. Avoid recklessness in travel, play anywhere.

YOU BORN TODAY are generous in disposition; have splendid qualities for leadership and managerial ability. You are usually tactful in gratifying in manner. Never permit ambition for fame or gain to override your finer qualities. Keep studying, improving constantly and be sure your spiritual side keeps pace with the temporal. You may have to be especially watchful and conservative during the balance of 24 regarding expenditures, exploits, patience and self-control urged.
